Vocabulary of the Kwakiutl Language.By Dr. Franz Boas.(Read before the American Philosophical Society, November 18, 1892.)

The Kwakiutl language is spoken on the coast of British Columbia, from Cape Mudge to Douglas and Gardner Channels, excluding Dean Inlet and Bentinck Arm, which are occupied by the Bilqula. The language forms a branch of the Wakashan stock, being affiliated with the Nootka or Aht of the west coast of Vancouver Island. The form of these languages reminds us in many respects of that of the Salishan stock, and it may be that a connection exists between both.

The Kwakiutl language is spoken in three dialects. the Kwakiutl proper, the Hëiltsuk and the Gyt'amā't. The first is spoken by the tribes of Vancouver Island and of the coast southeast of Rivers Inlet; the second by the tribes inhabiting the coast between Rivers Inlet and Gardner Channel; the last in Gardner and Douglas Channels. It will be found that phonetics and vocabulary of the northern and southern tribes are much alike, while the middle dialect stands more apart. This is probably due to the admixture of Bilqula elements in the central region.

The vocabularies contained in the following pages were collected by the author in 1886, 1888, 1889, 1890. As slight differences are found between the vocabularies of the various tribes, the tribe from which the words were collected are given. The following abbreviations have been used:

L.—for Lē'kwiltok',	}	Kwakiutl Dialect.
N.—Nimkish,
K.—Kwakiutl,
TL.—Tlatlasik'ōala,
A.—Awī'ky'ēnoq.	}	Hëiltsuk Dialect.
H.—Hë'iltsuk',
G.—Gyt'amā't,
		Gyt'amā't Dialect.

The literature of this language is very scanty. The following writings are of importance:

The following alphabet has been used; the vowels have their continental sounds:

â = aw in law.

ë = e in flower.

Consonants.—The following consonants require a special description:

k', g',

k, g, ky (kH), gy.

This is a series of k sounds beginning with the posterior guttural k', passing through the ordinary k to the anterior palatal ky. There is a tendency in the Hëiltsuk' dialect to transform ky and gy into k and g. The distinction between sonans and media is here, as in many other Indian languages, exceedingly difficult, and it may be that to the Indian ear there is no real distinction between both classes. The same is true in the case of labials and dentals. s and c (= English sh) are evidently modifications of the same sound; s is always pronounced with open teeth and post-alveolar position of the tip of the tongue. Thus it obtains a similarity with c, while the latter partakes in the same way of the characteristics of s.

q, Q, H correspond to k, k, ky, the first being the German guttural ch in ach, the last the German palatal ch in ich, the q an intermediate sound like ch in the Westphalian dialect.

The vowels of the Kwakiutł language are extremely variable, and I have not been able to ascertain satisfactorily the meaning of lengthening and shortening, of apparent contractions and diæresis. I had, therefore, to confine myself to give the various forms which I obtained from the Indians. We find a series of very indistinct vowels which are not articulated, but indicated by position of the mouth. The most frequent among these is u following a terminal k, for which I have used the sign ' ; for instance, in the passive participle —k'. In compounds, when a syllable follows the —k' the u is often articulated.

Pauses in words are very frequent, and are almost always accompanied by an increased stress of the preceding consonant. I have found it impossible in this language to distinguish clearly between consonants articulated with ordinary stress and increased stress, although the latter are undoubtedly found, p. e., ky'ë, no.
